Faculty Position:
Palliative Medicine Clinician Educator

The Division of Geriatrics, Gerontology, and Palliative Medicine, Department of Medicine, School of Medicine, is recruiting an outstanding Hospice and Palliative Medicine Clinician Educator to lead and expand an interdisciplinary palliative medicine consultation service at the University of Texas Health Science Center in partnership with University Health System. Successful applicants will have key roles in organizing and expanding this palliative medicine consultation model. Such clinical model includes an interdisciplinary team, multiple teaching opportunities and on-site mentorship.

In addition to providing excellent care, applicants should have skills and interests in teaching medical students, residents, and fellows and/or participating in clinical and educational research. The Division is fully integrated with UT Health Science Center resources, including the Barshop Institute for Longevity and Aging Studies, the Center for Healthy Aging, the South Texas Veterans Health Care System (Geriatrics Research Education and Clinical Center, Geriatrics and Extended Care Programs), and ACGME Accredited Fellowship Programs in Hospice and Palliative Medicine and Geriatrics. Applicants must be Board Certified in Internal Medicine or other primary specialty, but should already have or be eligible for the Board Certification in Hospice and Palliative Medicine through successful completion of an ACGME accredited fellowship training. Successful applicants will be appointed at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor dependent on experience.

The core values of the UTHSCSA Department of Medicine include commitments to excellence, professionalism and maturity, collegiality, intellectual curiosity, support for creating new knowledge, and participation in a community of scholars. Palliative Medicine Clinician Educators who share these values are welcome to send letters of interest and their Curriculum Vitae to:
